MICHAELA CELLINA, MD, GUEST EDITOR

Michaela Cellina is a radiologist in the Radiology Department of ASST Fatebenefratelli Sacco, Fatebenefratelli Hospital, Milan, Italy. She obtained her medical degree and medical radiology postgraduate degrees at the Vita-Salute San Raffaele University, Milan, Italy. Since 2015, Dr. Cellina has been the Chief of the Magnetic Resonance Unit and is responsible for all scientific and research activity at her institution.

She also served as the Counselor of the Committee of the Lombardy Regional Group SIRM (Italian Society of Diagnostic and Interventional Radiology) from 2019–2020, and then again from 2021–2022, a position in which she organized educational meetings and congresses. She is currently a Counselor of the Computed Tomography Study Section SIRM, elected for the 2023–2024 year and has been re-elected for 2025–2026. She is a member of the Editorial Board of Imaging in Medicine and the Editorial Board of BMC Medical Imaging and a Deputy Editor of La Radiologia Medica.

Dr. Mellina participates in multidisciplinary groups for the development of artificial intelligence software for various medical applications, has authored more than 120 scientific papers published in international journals, and has been the speaker and moderator at many national and international congresses.